

Infidelity

With your back towards mine, into sleep sink.
Together but separated by more than inches we lie.
You leave me in darkness to fret and to think.

Thinking of our past, never were two so in sync as us. The undefeated pair, now you dare defy with your back towards mine, into sleep sink.

I soon see your affections wane, a stray wink towards another face. I confront and ask why you leave me in darkness to fret and to think.

Absent for dinner, you're at her place. Slink out doors for nights of infidelity to satisfy.
With your back towards mine, into sleep sink.

Damming tears the truth sends me to the brink of sorrow and hatred. Towards your back I sigh,
you leave me in darkness to fret and to think.

Swallowing the contents of this bitter drink
I offer a final decision. This knot I unbind
with your back towards mine, into sleep sink.
You left me in darkness to fret and to think.